

SASQUATCH PEST CONTROL CASE STUDY

MAKE THE RIGHT DECISION FOR YOUR BUSINESS NEEDS

INTRODUCTION

Sasquatch Pest Control, led by owner Alex, encountered significant challenges with their digital marketing efforts. Prior to partnering with us, Alex's experience with another marketing company was characterized by minimal communication, a lack of transparency regarding budget allocation, and no effective means of tracking conversions. This lack of insight and control over his marketing investments made it difficult for Alex to assess the effectiveness of his campaigns and ultimately limited the growth potential of Sasquatch Pest Control.

CHALLENGES

The primary challenges Sasquatch Pest Control faced included:

- Inadequate Communication and Support: The previous marketing company provided little to no feedback or updates on campaign performance, leaving Alex in the dark.
- Absence of Conversion Tracking: Without proper tracking mechanisms, it was impossible to measure the success of any marketing efforts or to know where improvements were needed.
- Underperforming Google Paid Ads: Due to the lack of optimization and performance tracking, the Google Paid Ads campaigns were not delivering the desired results, affecting the company's ability to attract new customers.

SOLUTION

Our approach focused on establishing a foundation of transparency, accountability, and performance optimization for Sasquatch Pest Control's digital marketing campaigns:

- Enhanced Communication: We prioritized regular updates and open lines of communication with Alex, ensuring he was always informed about the strategies being implemented and the performance of his campaigns.
- Advanced Conversion Tracking: By setting up comprehensive conversion tracking, we were able to monitor the performance of phone calls and contact form submissions directly resulting from Google Paid Ads, providing valuable insights into campaign effectiveness.
- Optimization of Google Paid Ads: Through meticulous analysis and continuous optimization of Google Paid Ads, we significantly improved campaign performance, leading to increased conversions and more efficient use of the advertising budget.

RESULTS

The impact of our strategic interventions on Sasquatch Pest Control's digital marketing efforts was profound:

- Dramatic Increase in Conversions: Conversions from Google Paid Ads, including phone calls and contact form submissions, surged from 25% to an impressive 300% across various campaigns.
- Significant Growth in Customer Calls: During the busiest months, calls to Sasquatch Pest Control increased by over 60% year-over-year, without any increase in the advertising budget.
- Client Satisfaction: Alex's testimonial speaks volumes about the success of our partnership: "Rob jumped in and within weeks I noticed a huge difference! My online presence has increased dramatically as have visits to my website and calls to my office. This has resulted in more customers for me and increased revenue."

CONCLUSION

The collaboration between Sasquatch Pest Control and our team at Marketing AI showcases the transformative potential of a well-structured digital marketing strategy underpinned by effective communication, robust tracking, and continuous optimization. Alex's experience highlights the importance of not just setting and forgetting marketing campaigns but actively managing and refining them to achieve maximum impact.

FUTURE STEPS

Buoyed by the success of our initial efforts, we are now exploring new strategies to further enhance Sasquatch Pest Control's digital footprint, including exploring additional advertising channels, leveraging social media marketing, and implementing SEO improvements to increase organic reach. Sasquatch Pest Control's journey from digital marketing obscurity to a significant online presence and increased customer engagement serves as a compelling case for the value of strategic digital marketing partnership.
